MONTEVIDEO.

ARRIVAL OF THE S.S. MUNCHEN. 1,599 IMMIGRANTS ON BOARD.

LATER.

AFFAIRS ON 'CHANGE.

BRAZILIANS MELTING DOWN GOLD.

(From our special correspondent.)

Montevideo, 8th.

The German s.s. Munchen has arrived with 1,599 immigrants. Of these I learn that 752 are English 243 Belgians and 539 Spaniards. The rest other nationalities. She sailed from Antwerp and did not touch at any English port. She brings 1,174 tons of cargo and sails to-night for Buenos Ayres.

9 p.m.

The play in Obras continues: 6,000 were sold in first ring alone for to-morrow 7¼. Casey is very reserved.

National Banks 176.

The Munchen brought immigrants for Buenos Aires, and has just left. It appears there is a great want of coal. Steamers delayed four days at Frankfurt.

Deodoro's army, 3,000 strong, is in Corumba. The Brazilian Government has bought up millions of pounds sterling and is coining pieces of 10 and 20 mil reis.

Mr. Mulhall visited the Barrio Reus today and expressed himself delighted.

MONTEVIDEAN REVIVAL.

To the old Buenos Ayrean resident there is perhaps no city in the Plate that presents greater change and greater progress than Montevideo; and this we attribute as much to the new blood and new men who figure in its affairs as to the fresh capital and fresh impulse given to everything by the starting of the National Bank. President Tajes and his Ministers are confessedly new men representing new opinions in Montevidean affairs. Political opinions, which were always so bitter, and so monopolizing, have given way to the pressure of material progress. Nobody in Montevideo to-day talks politics; all are engaged in the active business of life. In the steamer on the way down we did not hear one word about politics; conversation turned on the price of barracas and the value of estancia land.

Morally and materially Montevideo is revolutionized. The Flores revolution, great and lasting as were its influences, is inferior to that of the National Bank. The sword that so long held its sway in Uruguay has given place to the Bank, and one can read even in the countenances of the people the benefits of the change and the benign influences of the altered power. Montevideo appears to us to have slept for twenty years. In the passing show of human life it presents pretty much the same appearance as the Argentine Republic did in 1880, when General Roca entered office. Its immediate future is a mine of wealth to those who strip to the task of developing it. Resources the richest and the most inexhaustible are untouched. The Banda Oriental is just beginning to move; all who came to Montevideo years ago came too soon. From Berro to Santos was a blank; but blighting as was that long and dreary epoch, it was useful; it matured the men and the resources necessary for the country's development. To-day the Banda Oriental assumes a new role in River Plate affairs; capital and immigration are flowing into the country; trade and commerce were never brisker. Public men are not mere braggart soldiers whose views were measured by the four walls of the barrack yard, but men who consult public opinion and study everything to advance the country.

In a future article we shall point to the many great changes and improvements that we note on all sides; we limit ourselves now to calling the attention of our readers to the splendid opening which Montevideo affords to those who have the way, the means and the energy to enter the lists and join in the task of opening up that rich and splendid country. Luckily, speculation has not been carried on in Montevideo to the same Excelsior point it has reached in Buenos Ayres.

The Hotel Oriental, which is perhaps one of the finest and best built hotels in South America, has just been bought by Mr. Matthew Victorica, of San Jose de Flores, for less money than the price of a small quinta on the Flores Road; and although within the last year or so things have greatly advanced in price in Montevideo, still there is a very wide difference between the prices and value of properties in the two cities. Montevideo for the moment offers a far better and safer field for investment than Buenos Ayres. But a couple of good, prosperous years, with a sound, honest and economical Government, will place the Queen City on a parity with Buenos Ayres.

NOTRE DAME DE CAROUPE

Antibes, Feb. 18.

About two miles from the hotel Du Cap, where I am now staying, there is a hill about the height of the Cerro of Montevideo, on which stands a light-house, and close by is an old chapel dedicated to Our Lady, from which is a magnificent view of the Italian coast towards Genoa. I set out yesterday morning afoot for this spot, the road winding along the summit of the promontory known as Cap d'Antibes, which juts into the Mediterranean midway between Nice and Cannes. Olive groves and pine woods shut in the road all the way, except at intervals where you get a glimpse of Cannes and the Esterel mountains on one side, or Nice and the Alps on the other.

The first quinta I passed was that of Miss Close, daughter of the late old James Close of Naples, who came here twenty years ago and was in such respect among the Antibians that one of the streets of Antibes is called Rue James Close. From the window of my room I can see the ruins of a palace which he had begun in 1878, when death surprised him, for he was a man of advanced age. Five minutes further I passed the villa of Mr. Dennery, a well-known French dramatist who is said to have made £40,000 by his play of Les Deux Orphelines; every winter he entertains here gronps of literary men from all countries. The next was that of Mr. Tricopolis, a Greek painter married to an English lady; his house and grounds rival those of Mr. Dennery for elegance and beauty of position.

Here the road makes a sharp bend to the north, through thick pine woods, among which I passed now and then wood-cutters' cottages. The people are very courteous, and evidently have a liking for strangers who come to enjoy this beautiful climate. In about an hour I had reached the top of the hill, and the panorama was superb. It is the finest view of the Alps that I have yet seen, as they rise up majestically behind Nice, covered with snow, glittering in the morning sun. All the French coast to the old frontier line at the mouth of the Var is so distinct that you can count the villages and hamlets on the slopes of the hills, and even the country-houses, as the train from Antibes runs along the coast to Nice. The territory which Napoleon III. annexed in 1859 is no less clearly defined, till the eye rests on the light-house and village of Villafranca, where the treaty was signed which stripped Italy of the intervening seaboard. Nice looks to much advantage, for distance lends enchantment to the view, and bad drainage and typhoid fever do not appear in the lovely landscape. Looking southward you see Cannes with island of St. Marguerite, and in the middle distance Golfe Juan, where Bonaparte landed from Elba, March 1st 1815, only 5 weeks before his overthrow at Waterloo. The reminiscence brings vividly to my mind the prophetic saying of Pius VII. to his Cardinals on that occasion. "Non abbi paura; questo è un regno di tre mesi." "Be not afraid; this is a kingdom of 3 months."

The military road made by Bonaparte winds beyond the hills; you fancy you can hear the tramp of his armed legions in the days of Montenotte, and Marengo. At your feet is the spot where he landed from Egypt, at the most critical turning-point in his career. The whole coast is historic. The tower built by the Romans at Antibes stands as intact as in the days of Cesar. Smaller watch-towers, to protect the inhabitants from surprise by the Saracens, who swept these shores in the 15th century, are seen on every height.

I entered the little chapel of Notre Dame, to which the Antibians make two pilgrimages every year. The walls are covered with ex-voto offerings, among which I observed the chains of a captive in Algiers, a souvenir of the dreadful time when the pirate Beys were the scourge of the Mediterranean. From the terrace in front you get a wide view of the sea, taking in the island of St. Honoratus, where the famous monastery of Lerins was a lamp of learning in the earliest ages of Christianity. No fewer than 1,500 students were assembled there in the 4th century from all parts of Europe, and the Apostle of Ireland spent some time there before he began his great missionary labor.

In the present age of telegraphs and railways we are too prone to forget the scenes and triumphs of early civilization, in which religion played the great part. There have been, alas, too many crimes perpetrated in that august name, but they are infinitely outnumbered by the blessed and beneficent result that untiring and zealous men, scholars of the cloister, have handed down to the remotest posterity. After 1400 the sight of Lerins fills an Irish wanderer with the grateful memory of St. Patrick.

LONDON LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent)

CLOUDS.

March 9th

The financial crisis in Paris cannot be said to have ended, but the acute form which kept the bourses of the continent on the tremble, has passed away. The Bank of France and M. Rouvier have come forward to save Paris from a crash on the eve of the great exhibition. There are three questions in the case—the position of the Comptoir d'Escompte as a banking institution—the position of the copper syndicate, and that of the copper market. In regard to the bank it is assured for the present against the further run of small depositors. The advances on the part of the Bank of France and other financial institutions have been increased up to 100 millions of francs, which relieves the Comptoir d'Escompte of all immediate fears. At the end of last year its liabilities to the public were £11,034,000, of which £8,075,000 are liabilities at call against which the share capital and reserves stand at £4,213,000, or proportionately, as the Statist says, larger than our London banks.

The Comptoir d'Escompte successfully issued in 1887 and 1888 the following Argentine loans:—

|---|---|
| Five per cent Argentine | £ 8,333,000 |
| Obligations Arg. R'way. | 2,240,000 |
| Six p. c. Cordova Prov... | 2,000,000 |
| Four and a half p.c. Arg. | 3,833,580 |
| | £16,406,480 |

I cannot yet find any reliable statement in regard to the private affairs of the late manager or to his dealings with the copper syndicate on behalf of the bank. It is not right to say "advances," but guarantees to a very large amount, though not so large as I stated in one of my late letters, have certainly been given by the bank to support that syndicate. How far the transactions were on M. Rochereau's private and speculative account we do not yet know. It seems certain that the French syndicate has collapsed and in the present state of the copper market the only chance of the French speculators is to send the whole business to London, where it will be managed in a less speculative manner by a London Association. Copper has fallen from its last week's quotation of £80 to below £60 per ton, and this latter price is quite nominal. The real price for all we know may be £30. The speculators for the rise, such as M. Maurice Ephrussi, have been forced to realise, and the impending dissolution of the "Société des Metaux" and consequent fall in Rio Tintos, all point to low prices. Chili bars may fall to £50 at any moment. The basis of the French Syndicate's bulling operations it said to have been £70 per ton. As for the Comptoir d'Escompte itself I am sorry I can cull for you so little that is trustworthy in regard to its condition. All accounts agree as to its solvency and prosperity as far as balance sheets go; but when bank managers blow out their brains no one knows what is behind balance-sheets. For instance, we hear of 28,000,000 fr. of Greek bonds missing. Other securities may be found missing from the strong-box of the bank. The whole affair is only four days old, and perhaps it had better be left. We can console ourselves with the fact that the bourses of Europe have by a miracle escaped a serious panic, thanks to the prompt action of the French ministry and the Bank of France. British Consols were fairly on the drop so lately as yesterday afternoon. Only the better news from Paris towards the close of business saved Capel Court from panic. This is a more pessimistic picture than you will perhaps receive from ordinary sources, but "mum" is the word; for in addition to difficulties occasioned by the pistol of M. Denfert-Rochereau, continental politics are overclouded by the recent events in Servia. It is felt that the diplomatic progress of Russia, not only in Servia, but in Roumania and Bulgaria, is so certain, and Russian intrigue so successful, that Austria-Hungary will have great difficulty in maintaining the status quo. It is a most unfortunate position, both for Austria and Germany which is in honor bound to support her. It is a lesson to England in the Irish question, and to all statesmen who, priding themselves on what they are pleased to term scientific and practical views, affect to despise such abstract considerations and sentimentalities as national aspirations. The soft-stealing progress of Russia in the Balkan peninsula is due neither to her military power nor to her diplomatic astuteness, but to community of race and of religion that in a great measure is a question of racial characteristics.

Our Queen is safely housed in the Rochefoucauld Villa at Biarritz. She is, or ought to be, well advised, and seems perfectly composed, troubling herself neither with Teuton nor with Slav. Courtesy is scarcely the word to describe her reception by the gallant and polite French people. She has been received with affection in the Western Provinces of France, where historic traditions still linger. Meanwhile her Ministers in England have brought forward a simple proposal to build seventy ships of war at an expenditure of 21 millions sterling—a navy, in fact an armament, that could not have been much more imposing had war been declared. I have said long since all that is to be said upon this subject. This vast armament is proposed by the Messrs. Forwood, Hamilton, Salisbury and Goschen, who but a few months since assured us that never was our navy so strong, and that the scare occasioned by "the truth about the navy" was a childish panic. Either they then lied, or, for the base purpose of an antidote against Pigottism, they lie now. For the present I postpone the subject.

Mr. Gladstone is in bed with a bad cold. He had better lie there and reflect. A mistake on this question, so adroitly introduced by the Government, will upset his projects of an early return to power. The Navy question is like the Irish question as it is viewed by the English classes. Men who will fight to the death for the patronage of a church living will stick at nothing for the salvation of ground rents and for the patronage and political prestige involved in the expenditure of twenty millions. The "classes" in England are fortunate in having a stupid native middle class formed of stock-brokers and shopmen to deal with, and a sharp Jew Chancellor of the Exchequer and clever Scotch subordinates to do their behests. The lower classes are helpless and brutalized by over-work; but the England of Cromwell's days is not dead, but sleepeth. A most startling rumor was current yesterday. The old tale of the naval action between the Germans and Americans in Samoan waters was renewed in detail. The American vessel, it is said, fired a shell at the German corvette "Olga," doing much damage between decks. The Germans retaliated with a torpedo, which sent Yankee and all hands into thin air. The American Secretary of State for war has heard nothing of it, and modestly thinks he should have heard of the circumstance as soon as anyone else. The Germans will have to draw in their horns. Their position, owing to their vulgar and, as it proves, unprofitable blustering is getting most dangerous. Prince Bismarck is in need of all his cleverness.

SUNDAY'S RACING.

Small fields, plenty of mud and a drizzling rain at the end of the afternoon were the order of the day at Belgrano on Sunday last, and consequently, we need hardly say, only a modicum of enjoyment could have been experienced by the most inveterate sportsman. The ball was opened by the Premio Saavedra in which the Casal horses again obtained the best of the start, and after Phidias had spread-eagled his field, he quietly waited and allowed his stable companion St. Leger to win; this sort of thing is allowed by the English Rules of Racing after a declaration has been made, but we are not aware that it is permitted on the Argentine Turf—on the contrary, the rules, so far as we can see, are against it; in any case, it is a practice to be deprecated. The Premio La Milla was interesting, for after she had been chopped at the start and was 20 lengths behind the leaders at half distance, Miss Mary only succumbed by a head to Havre, and there is little doubt that, with a jockey on her back, she would have won. A couple of bad two yr. olds turned out for the Premio Ensayo in which Cock Crow had little difficulty in disposing of Mosquito in a very slow race. Portenito had a very easy task, in the absence of Cormeilles, and, to the surprise of everyone, ridiculously short odds were betted on him against the wretched Reverberation—indeed, instead of 5 to 3, the real odds should have been represented by 50 to 3. In the principal race of the day, a couple of accidents occurred, Kildare and Serapis coming to grief at different spots, the first of these spills causing the good thing of the day to be upset, for, interfering greatly with Brujo, the latter was thrown out of his stride and lost a considerable amount of ground; he, however, was rapidly pulled together and had the distance been 10 yards further, would have won, for he was travelling twice as fast as the winner, Cassiopeia, at the finish and was only beaten a half length. Cassiopeia's performance nevertheless, must not be lightly regarded, as she was giving plenty of weight away and ran in a manner suggesting, contrary to her previous style, the possession of a certain amount of stamina.

POLITEAMA.

On Sunday evening a large audience, including Madame Patti, assembled at the inauguration of the Operatic Season, and were delighted at the bright appearance presented by the old house, which has been redecorated in a cheerful fashion and provided with a new drop act, fresh and comfortable funtenils, and more commodious exits. First impressions thus proving favourable, the audience were determined to accept the opera in a generous mood, and in sober, earnest, a rendition of Aida was presented with which little fault could be found. There were no stars in the cast, neither were there any square pegs in round holes, and a more even all-round performance could not have been given. The title role was filled by Sta. Colonnese, whose only fault was a careless make-up, she being ably seconded by Signorini as Radames. Ratti, Rossi and Marescalchi were all efficient, but the soundest and best piece of acting and singing was that of Sta. Vittorine Fabbri in the arduous role of Amneris; her lovely voice was heard to great advantage, and her artistic bearing and power of expression in the last act compelled the attention of the audience throughout a long and not too interesting 'scena'. The chorus was good and the mise en scene fairly satisfactory; but the most powerful augury of success for the new season was seen in the splendid body of instrumentalists forming the orchestra, who, after a little more practice together, will prove themselves a safe and solid basis for the most complicated music.

La Patti will make her debut to-night in the evergreen Traviata.

CONVERSION OF THE ARGENTINE DEBT.

(Opinion of the Economist.)

Those who framed the prospectus of the new Argentine Conversion Loan may be complimented upon the skill they have shown in disguising the real character of the operation. It is set forth as a measure the one object of which is to diminish the burden of the debt, and it is asserted that its result will be to effect a total annual saving of £510,000. Thus the unwary reader is led to imagine that there is going to be a marked improvement in the condition of the Argentine finances, and it would never dawn upon him that the so-called conversion is essentially only a device for postponing charges which the Argentine Government is either unable or unwilling to meet. Yet that this is its real character a very slight examination is sufficient to show.

The amount now outstanding of the four 6 per cent. loans to which the conversion applies is, we are told, £4,490,000, and the present annual charge for interest and sinking fund is set down at £801,000. Of this latter total £269,400 constitutes the interest charge, and the remaining £531,600 is the amount applicable to the redemption of the principal of the debt. Of course, the amount of the sinking fund increases year by year, as the principal is reduced, and if the debt charge were maintained at the present amount of £801,000 the whole debt would be redeemed in about seven years. This annual peyment, however, would appear to be too much for the Government, and the conversion scheme is a rather costly way of affording temporary relief to the Treasury. The £4,490,000 of 6 per cent. bonds at present outstanding are to be replaced by £5,290,000 of 4½ per cent. bonds, with a cumulative sinking fund of 1 per cent., which will redeem the principal within 39 years. And, supposing this conversion to be effected, the new interest and sinking fund charges will compare with those now payable thus:

| | Interest. £ | Sinking Fund. £ |
|---|---|---|
| Present charge... | 269,400 | 531,600 |
| New charge..... | 238,000 | 53,000 |
| Decrease..... | 31,400 | 478,600 |

Now, so far as the sinking fund is concerned there is no saving whatever. All that is gained is that the instalaments of redemption money are reduced by being spread over thirty-nine instead of seven years. There is, in other words, not a reduction, but only a postponement of liabilities. It is, of course, different with the reduction in the interest charge. That is a real diminution of expenditure. But look at the price which has to be paid in order that it may be effected. It involves, to begin with, an increase of about £800,000 in the principal of the debt; and it further involves the payment of a considerable sum to the big financial houses who have undertaken the business. It will probably be a very moderate computation if we place the cost of the operation in increase of debt and incidental expenses at £1,000,000 and the Government which is content to pay so big a price for so small a relief must feel its financial necessities to be very pressing indeed.

In a less degree, very much the same features as those which present themselves in this Argentine conversion scheme have characterised the recent conversions of ther foreign debts, such, for example, as those of Russia and Hungary. In all these cases the postponement of redemption charges, quite as much as the reduction of the rate of interest payable on the debt, was the inspiring motive of the operation. The conversions, in short, have offered a convenient mode of postponing payments which the respective Treasuries experienced a difficulty in meeting, and to the debtor Governments that has probably been their chief recommendation. They have thus been essentially different in kind from the conversion of our own debt, to which Mr Goschen is about to give the finishing touch, or to the debt conversions of the United States and of France. In those cases the one object was to take advantage of the improvement in credit resulting from a strong financial position, in order to reduce the burden of the debt, whereas in such conversions as those of the Argentine Republic, the object is mainly to defer payments, and to obtain the same sort of relief as a private debtor obtains when he arranges with his creditors to pay by instalments spread over a lengthened period. No State that is not in the best credit could effect a conversion such as Mr Goschen has carried through, or as the United States have more than once effected of late years; whereas no State that is not financially embarrassed would consent to pay so high a price as the Argentine Government is now doing for an extension of time in which to meet its liabilities. This difference between what we may call the true and the spurious conversion has been too much overlooked by investors, and it is necessary that their attention should be specially directed to it.

Railway Items.

FINE OF $2,000 FOR THE NORTHERN LINE; $5,000 FOR THE ANDINE; MR. FISHER ARRANGES QUESTIONS WITH MESSRS. NOUGUIER AND CO.

DR. ARAOZ WRITES TO THE ENSENADA RAILWAY—TRAFFIC RETURNS AND KILOMETRAGE OF THE ENSENADA LINE.

A meeting of the National Railway Board took place yesterday. Dr. Araoz in the Chair. After some discussion it was decided to fine the Northern Railway $2,000 for disobedying of orders of inspectors, and the Andine Railway $5,000 for repeated irregularities in the service. Mr Romero manager of the line, has been arrested and imprisoned.

In the Home Office yesterday Mr Henry Fisher for the Central Argentine, and Mr. Nouguier and Co. met and resolved.

1st—The Central Argentine shall change its tracing from Kil. 25 to Kil. 40, and from Kil. 45 to Kil. 58.

2nd—Messrs. Nouguier and Co. shall change their tracing from Kil. 45 to Kil. 63.

3rd—These alterations refer to plans for respective concessions in the Engineers' Department.

Dr. Araoz has written to the manager of the Ensenada line in regard to certain improvements to be made in the Central Station. The indefatigable chairman of the N. R. Board is anxious that these improvements be carried out at once.

The gross receipts of the Ensenada line last January were $114,634, and the working expenses $56,297.

The kilometrage covered by the Ensenada line in February was 511,146,

The net earnings of the Primer Entre Reaiu last month were $501. The gross receipts were $1,433. The kilometrage covered was 3,652.

Engineer Iriarte has sent another very severe note to the President of the National Railway Board denouncing the manager of the Northern Railway for putting in his trains carriages previously condemned by the Inspectors as unserviceable. At the Retiro Inspector Iriarte saw one of these condemned coaches arrive full of passengers from the Tigre; he stopped the train and had it detached. It was in a most dangerous state, and the passengers who had alighted from it were intensely alarmed at having been exposed to such danger. The Inspector calls for the maximum fine to be imposed on the company.

Engineer Fernandez reports from Rio Cuarto by telegram that the passengers detained owing to the bad state of the line have been forwarded to Villa Mercedes. Mr. J. D. Martin has been named manager of the line.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

Carmen de Areco, April 3, 1889.

To the Editor of the Standard,

Dear Sir.

It is my painful duty to announce to your numerous readers the melancholy and unaccountable death of Mr. Enright, Mrs. Downer's major domo. On Wednesday, the 3rd inst., his body was found in the sheep dip, in a nude state; whether through somnambulism, intoxication, or that he has been the victim of a revengeful crime none up to the present are able to surmise. A post mortem examination will be held.

I am, dear sir,

Yours respectfully,

GUILLERMO FARRELL.

EDITOR'S TABLE

The news of the day yesterday were not calculated to set the River Plate on fire The burning intelligence of Saturday from Brizil, given by the Razon of Montevideo, is point-blank denied, and that paper threatens to publish the name of its informant if his news prove to be false. So the matter stands. The public, from long experience, do not believe a syllable of the periodically alarming reports of this kind that come from Rio.

They had another rousing cyclone at Montevideo on Sunday evening, just before dinner, but no great harm was done on sea or land. Here there was a rather stiff topsail breeze at the same time, but no damage. The weather spoiled sport everywhere on Sunday; but chaste Luna turned up about 8 p. m. and made the time pleasant for theatre-goers, which means our friend Tout-le-monde in this pleasure-loving city.

Rio Janeiro society will have to exist without Italian opera—at least for the first order—this year. All Ferrari's artists refuse to go there at any price.

We feel much pleasure in welcoming back to the Plate Dr. Emilio Coni who has just arrived from Europe after a nine months tour there.

The Captive balloon will be ready for business at the Retiro next Sunday. Two French deronsnts will go up with the public, in case of accident. The maximum height the balloon will rise to will be 500 metres, 200 more than that vulgar abortion the Eiffel Tower at Paris. Montevideo will be visible from the car. It will of course make everyone happy and confident to hear that the Municipal Engineers have examined all the machinery in connection with the balloon and reported it all safe. Any citizen that hesitates to visit the upper air having such a certificate of safety must be either a fool—or a wise man.

Near San Nicolas the scarcity of hands for the maize harvest is such that farmers are paying fifty cents per fanega to get it cut.

The old Cabildo clock is now ticking Time into Eternity again on one of the belfries of San Ignacio church. As yet only two dials of the clock are put up.

Under the headings "Brass and Blunders," and "Too good for this market," the "River Plate Times" of Montevideo has two excellent articles on the present ruge for cheap, showy things in preference to what will last: houses, dress, boots, hats, everything is cheap and bogus; and the public is so demoralized by the pretence and extravagance of the day, that it wont buy good articles. Ladies now deliberately buy dresses that wont last long, in order to have plenty of change. It is not likely that this kind of lunacy will last very long, even in this showy and extravagant part of the globe.

The Reporter of Rosario gives a most amusing account of the recent meeting of the United Club there. The balance-sheet was such a triumph of book-keeping that "heavy wine bills and wages accounts appeared as assets; and, although it was stated that there was a cash balance in hand, the cash account showed a balance on the Credit side"!!! One indignant member did not hesitate to use the word 'bogus' in reference to the accounts. This made things lively; and "a gentleman who had apparently left his voice at home" made them livelier by something he was "understood" to say. But the liveliest stage was reached when the Chairman suddenly put on his hat, declared the whole meeting out of order, and walked out. Everybody then adojurned to the patio, where, for some moments, a general free scrimmage looked imminent, but was, happily, staved off by the good sense of the members. The consequence of all this unpleasantness is that the United Club is considerably disunited for the time being.

The new Irish Catholic Church in Rosario is to be called St. Patrick's.

A London paper makes the following startling announcement about Pasteur's inoculation to prevent rabies. How is it, then, that Dr. Davel has been so successful here? "The persons bitten at St. Helens the other day by a mad dog, and who have been sent over to the care of M. Pasteur, are the first authentic cases of patients inoculated with the virus of a mad dog that have been submitted to him from this country. Now let us see what M. Pasteur will do with them. Hitherto there has not been one single well authenticated case of a person having been bitten by a really mad animal having been cured by the great man in the Rue d'Ulm. Those who have been really inoculated with the poison have died, and the so-called cures have never borne much investigation."

At the inauguration of Messrs. Clark's Transandine Railway in Chile last week President Balmaceda said that some disturbance of the equilibrium of population might be expected when the line is completed. We take this to mean that H. E. expects a flow of emigrants from his own country to this, and he is probably right.

The Velocipede Company has applied for approval of its statutes, and will no doubt receive the "bene placet" of the Attorney General. Its capital is 300,000 Nats., enough to supply the whole country with velocipedes. The question is to find a road, in the whole country except at Palermo, over which a velocipedist could get along without the all but certainty of breaking his valu

The week opens with such gloomy prospects that pessimists, and they swarm in the Bolsa at the present moment, may well entertain the conviction that their expectations are in a more than fair way of being realized. Stocks are groaning under a most accentuated depression; the premium boomed up to 65 o/o and closed with buyers at 63.50 o/o, and nobody knows the reason or can explain the cause. Of course, there always remains the alleged mintrust which is said to hold the situation in thrall; but menacing as this may be it can scarcely account for a state of affairs that will want little further development to ripen into a partial crisis. This distrust, however, is superficial and unreal. Nobody doubts for a moment the vitality of the country and its prodigious resources; nobody apprehends a malady that can take permanent root. What is really apprehended is the sudden gust that might overtake the speculative ship, all unmanageable and storm driven as she is at present. It is a sign that the meeting of two roads is close at hand to hear many parties anxiously inquiring when the Minister will "shew his hand." Of the opportunity and occasion he is, of course, the best, in fact, the only judge, but it is none the less worthy of note that the clouds are getting denser daily. The confidence of commerce at large in the Minister's well-known financial views and leaning is nevertheless unshaken and unimpaired, and merchants are content to await calmly and patiently for the financial programme.

It must also be borne in mind that "new departures," especially of the energetic nature sprung on the market by Minister Varela, cannot be accomplished without clashing with some particular interests. This clashing means rousing the tempest, and it is this tempest which the Minister has foreseen and now has to brave. Millions of gold employed in the passes are now, like the swallows, birds of passage. A squeeze was the inevitable result of the calling of all this gold in, and the squeeze and the market are now face to face. This is the lever that is pushing gold up so rapidly and surely and the cause of the fall in stocks, as it has produced the restriction of discounts that is at present playing such sad havoc with the dealers.

Owing to the general meeting of the Bolsa members taking place to-day there was only one ring.

Operations at the ring were almost confined to the sovereign stock and Constructors. The latter held their own bravely, closing at 129 for cash and 131½ for end of month: and it seems that there is a syndicate hard at work in this stock taking up all the shares offered. In National Bank shares the feeling is bad, as although there seem to be heavy interests engaged in sustaining the stock, they are unable to resist the current of the market; 6100 shares were sold for end of month, opening at 259, fluctuating between that rate and 258¾ and closing sellers at 258. In Cedulas there was a fair business done in Gold A and D National Series, and M and N Provincial, rates being firm. Nothing was done in Obligations. La Plata Moles were steady at 132 for end of month and 135 end of May. Some Bolsa Bank shares were done at 58½ cash and 59 end of month, which shews a fall, and some General Pobladora done at 134 cash and 136½ end of month also shew weakness.

The money market is so tight that paper discounts are spoken of as almost impossible at 10 to 12 o/o. Gold discounts easy at 9 to 10 o/o.

A subscriber has ventured the inquiry if there is any probability of the "La Unica" paying a dividend soon, as it is generally said that the Company, which is in the washing and laundry line, is doing a roaring business. We suppose the manager will be able to inform him on the point.

The following is a summary of operations effected this afternoon during the first ring:—

The meeting of Bolsa members took place to-day, as announced, to elect a new Camara Sindical in lieu of the former members who, as is well known, resigned en masse. Several lists were flying about, one said to be favored from official quarters, but from the start of proceedings it was quite evident that there was an overwhelming majority in favor of re-election of former members. This was eventually the result of voting, and Mr. Legerén was much congratulated on being for the fifth time re-elected to the important post he so lately resigned. Of course this election has no bearing on the question at issue between the Government and the Chamber, but it shows that the attitude of the latter during late events is in consonance with the ideas of the Bolsa members, though this at the time was hotly denied.

Mr. A Tavana has applied to the Government for 3500 hectares of land in the Chaco to start a colony. He offers to bring 200 to 300 families and 50 experienced vine-growers from Italy.

The Nuevo Banco Argentino has applied to Government for approval of statutes. The new bank is for the savings of the army and navy.

During the evening it was said that gold was up to 166, though eventually sales were effected in different quarters at 163 to 163¼.

The consignment of specie by the Leibnitz is said to be £450,000, which goes mainly to Europe. On Saturday 80,000 dollars were remitted in specie to Montevideo.

Exchange, though little is doing, is reported a trifle improved. In sterling, 47d. was said to have been done to-day, though some drawers hold out for 46⅞d. Francs and reichsmarks still keep low.

Advices from the camp announce that the continued rains are throwing the maize fields back, and it is feared that unless the weather becomes more settled there will be heavy losses, as hands are very scarce.

The s.s. Munchen arrived in Montevideo to-day and will be up to-morrow with 25 first-class passengers, two second-class, and 147 third-class, besides 1599 immigrants on assisted passages. The steamer leaves the mole at 8 o'clock to give entry to the Munchen. The nationalities of the immigrants are as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| English ..... | 752 |
| Belgians ..... | 243 |
| French ..... | 62 |
| Spanish ..... | 539 |
| German ..... | 1 |
| Italians ..... | 2 |

The s.s. Brazil arrived in Montevideo to-day consigned to Messrs Maumus and Co.; she brings 300 passengers, 1050 tons of cargo.

The sale was reported to-day of a lot of Bolsa shares at 241, being the highest price yet paid for this stock.
